Cabinet reshuffle needs to put business front and centre

Tasmanian Chamber of Commerce and Industry CEO Michael Bailey has thanked Sarah Courtney for her significant contribution to Tasmania and the business community in particular.

“Sarah has been a fantastic advocate for the Tasmanian business community across a range of areas including small business, tourism, hospitality, events, training and education,” Mr Bailey said.

“On behalf of the Tasmanian Chamber of Commerce I would like to thank Sarah for her contribution. Perhaps Sarah's biggest legacy will be her contribution to the proposed TAFE reforms.

“There is no doubt Sarah's resignation leaves a big hole to fill in the Parliament but more importantly in Cabinet. We urge the Premier to put business first when considering the Cabinet reshuffle and ensure that the business community continues to have strong representation at the Cabinet table.”
