TCCI calls for certainty

The Tasmanian Chamber of Commerce and Industry is the voice of business in Tasmania and is calling for certainty for Tasmania's business community following the resignation of two Government MPs.

TCCI CEO, Michael Bailey, said Tasmania needs a strong Government that can deliver for the community.

"The business community and the broader community both need certainty that their Government is getting on with the job of providing the strong leadership that the State needs," Mr Bailey said.

"Tasmania currently has a strong economy, low unemployment and record levels of investment in health, education and infrastructure. We need to keep that going and avoid uncertainty affecting business confidence.

"We urge all of our elected members to work in the best interests of the State and focus on the community rather than themselves."
