Businesses need certainty and stability from Government

The Tasmanian Chamber of Commerce and Industry is the voice of business in Tasmania and is urging the Government to provide the certainty and stability that our state needs.

The TCCI CEO, Michael Bailey, said it was incumbent on all Members of Parliament to put the interest of the community first and work together to provide solutions.

“There are many challenges facing our state at the moment,” Mr Bailey said.

“We need our representatives to focus on delivering good outcomes for the community, whether that be driving economic growth, creating jobs or delivering important reforms such as implementing the recommendations from the recent Commission of Inquiry.”
